

The Eagle's Landing

Letter From the Principal

Wow! The school year is almost over. It is hard to believe that there are only a few more weeks of school left before Summer Vacation is upon us. Please keep in mind the upcoming Academy events. I encourage you to come to each event, even though you may not have a child in some of the grades.

I am looking forward to the ACE Learning Centers' Spring Concert (5th-12th Grades) coming up on Tuesday, May 12th @ 7:00PM. This is always such a special night. Pastor Knutsen, our Music Director, and his wife, Lori, always do such a tremendous job working with the students. Please pray for this concert and make sure to be here for this special night.

Also, please pray for us as we take a group of students to International Student Convention. The week of competition is scheduled for May 22nd-29th in Las Cruces, NM. We are very excited for our students. Competing at an international competition is a great accomplishment and one that they will remember for a lifetime.

Don't forget to turn in your enrollment forms for next year. A couple of the classes are already full and others are filling up quickly. You do not want to miss next year. God is doing something great and I'm excited to be a part of it.

The final week of school is packed with great year end excitement and programs. Please make note of the upcoming events:

- Tuesday, May 12th @ 7:00PM - ACE Learning Center Spring Concert and awards night.
- Monday, May 18th at 7:00PM - Kindergarten (K-4 and K-5) graduation and awards. K-5 graduates need to arrive by

Why Should I Consider Christian Education?

Ten Reasons You Must Consider It

Finances, location, perceived academic deficiencies, these are just some of the reasons parents spurn Christian education in favor of its public school counterpart. However, as Christians, our decisions in life must be founded on the Word of God. The education (what type, where, etc.) of my children is a supreme decision and not one to be entered into lightly. The Bible is our guide book for life. We'd like to offer you ten solid arguments in favor of Christian education. There are plenty of others, both biblical and practical. But these are the most compelling.

"Therefore shall ye lay up these my words in your heart and in your soul, and bind them for a sign upon your hand, that they may be as frontlets between your eyes. And ye shall teach them your children, speaking of them when thou sittest in thine house, and when thou walkest by the way, when thou liest down, and when thou risest up."

(Deuteronomy 11:18-19)

What we have here is a clear biblical mandate to saturate our children's minds with the Word of God. It's a difficult task under any circumstances, but virtually impossible in a public school setting. Once inside those doors, children spend 30 to 40 hours a week being told that God, if He exists at all, is no longer relevant. No matter how spiritually grounded your child may be, the repetition of such destructive ideas can't help but have an adverse affect.

"I advise no one to place his child where the Scriptures do not reign paramount. Every institution in which men are not increasingly occupied with the Word of God must become corrupt...I am much afraid that schools will prove to be the great gates of hell unless they diligently labor in explaining the Holy Scriptures, engraving them in the hearts of youth."

Martin Luther

The harsh reality is that our Supreme Court kicked God out of the public school system more than 40 years ago. A generation later, scientific naturalism and a host of other anti-God values are not only being taught in American classrooms, they're being championed.

Christian schools offer a refreshing, biblical alternative. Not only is the Bible taught for what it is - the inspired Word of God - but it forms the foundation of all other texts. In Math, in Social Studies, in Biology, all academic roads lead to God, in whom all knowledge has its origin. Your children won't travel that road in the local public school, including charter schools.

2. GOD COMMANDS US TO TEACH KIDS THROUGH THE WORD

It is a sad but true irony: public schools, the self-proclaimed shapers of the human mind, have chosen to ignore the God who created the human mind. To their chagrin, they have robbed themselves of their most valuable "textbook," and the only available source of absolute truth.

"The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom," writes Solomon, "...and the knowledge of the Holy is understanding." (Proverbs 9:10).

As students pursue the knowledge of Math, Biology and Music in a Christian setting, they're chasing after the knowledge of God. And the by-products of such an endeavor - wisdom and understanding - are the God-given rewards for which every good student strives.

God expects you, as a Christian parent, to plant and nurture His Word in the hearts and minds of your children. This is best accomplished in settings where home, church, and school all send the same message, teaching God's truth with clarity, conviction and consistency. And while the benefits of such a commitment are often realized much later, here's one you'll notice in relatively short order. An education that uses God's Word as its foundational text does more than produce spiritually-mature Christians. It makes them wiser and more knowledgeable. It forces them to be better thinkers. And isn't that the goal of education in the first place?

3. THE SCHOOL SHARES YOUR VALUES

If you're like most Christian parents, you've taught your children about God since the day they were born. You've taken them to church, read them Bible stories, sung "Jesus Loves Me." Imagine their shock and dismay when they're thrust into an environment in which God is hated, ignored, or both.

"The school system that ignores God teaches its pupils to ignore God; and this is not neutrality. It is the worst form of antagonism, for it judges God to be unimportant and irrelevant in human affairs. This is atheism."

Gordon H. Clark

Even the best public schools are prohibited by law from reinforcing the values you teach at home. They either compete against them or disregard them altogether. And because you care about the mental and spiritual development of your children, you may spend countless hours trying to bridge the philosophical gap between Christianity and humanism - a gap that would never have existed had they attended Christian school.

By entrusting your children to educators who share your values, you'll have more

4. SAFETY

With thousands of students roaming their halls and taxpayer dollars funding their bankrolls, public schools can only go so far in the area of discipline. The result? More frequent occurrences of theft and physical violence, not to mention coarse profanity and open rebellion in the classroom.

Simply put, Christian schools are a safer place for your children to receive an education. While not devoid of problems - even severe ones like drug and alcohol use - they are far less likely to occur, and far more likely to be met with firm disciplinary action.

In addition to physical well-being, Christian schools offer a much safer emotional and spiritual environment. Verbal insults and hazing, things that go largely overlooked in a public school setting, are less likely to be tolerated. And the politically-correct, socially-tolerant attitudes that pervade secular classrooms never see the light of day at distinctly Christian institutions. Anti-Christian behavior such as homosexuality and abortion is exposed for what it is, which helps guard your children's minds against the licentious attitudes fostered by popular education.

5. ACADEMIC ACHIEVEMENT

Contrary to popular opinion, students at Christian schools consistently out-perform their public school counterparts. Their standardized test scores are way above the curve, and they're better prepared for college upon graduation. Even in the areas of math and reading, subjects that are "less spiritual" in content, students at Christian schools have proven their superiority.

The sad

truth is, despite their claims of excellence, our nation's public schools are far less academically rigorous than they once were. Only 67 percent of all public school students entering ninth grade graduate with a regular diploma four years later. United States competency in math and science lags behind a host of other countries. And despite the vast amounts of government money being funneled to public education, our standardized testing scores continue to slip.

"A truly Christian education is possible only when Christian education underlies not a part, but all, of the curriculum of the school. True learning and true piety go hand in hand, and Christianity embraces the whole of life - those are great central convictions that underlie the Christian school."

J. Gresham Machen

Christian schools are far from an academic liability. In fact, in the aftermath of 2002's "No Child Left Behind" Act, college recruiters are more likely to view public school transcripts with a skeptical eye. The best colleges are likely to pay your children more attention, not less, if they attend a Christian school. For more information, including some test score numbers that may surprise you.

6. TEACHERS LOVE AND FEAR THE LORD

Part of the reason why

Christian students perform so well in the classroom is that they have a higher percentage of teachers who genuinely care about them. Most of these dedicated men and women sacrifice greater monetary rewards to serve where they can do the most intrinsic good.

In addition to the passion they feel for their students, the vast majority of Christian educators love God with equal intensity. And unlike some of their well-meaning public school colleagues, they are not prohibited by the United States government from making overt claims to that effect.

“For by wise counsel thou shalt make thy war: and in multitude of counsellors there is safety.” (Proverbs 24:6).

Teachers are a school’s heartbeat. Its pulse. They are also among the most influential role models in students’ lives. And while you can certainly find Christian educators at a public school, the best of all academic worlds exists when everyone - the school board, the principal, the teachers and the parents - is operating under the same educational paradigm.

7. INDIVIDUAL ATTENTION

In addition to having a higher percentage of caring teachers, Christian schools can almost always offer more individual attention than public schools, many of which are overcrowded and hopelessly understaffed.

“Iron sharpeneth iron; so a man sharpeneth the countenance of his friend.” (Proverbs 27:17).

Even in cases where the ratio is virtually identical, class size is not. Christian school classes generally have fewer students. They’re smaller, more intimate gatherings that encourage students to be participants rather than spectators. Students learn how to think quickly, and gain valuable experience sharing their thoughts and opinions in a public forum.

8. SUCCESS AFTER GRADUATION

Because Christian school students perform at a higher level in the classroom than their public school counterparts, it only makes sense that their options upon graduation are more abundant. Therefore, they are more likely to be better prepared to handle the rigors of higher education. They have also received the spiritual foundation they need to excel in areas of ministry, whether they are career or volunteer-oriented.

In addition to these practical advantages, there is at least one intangible benefit. Students who have been grounded in the truth of God’s Word day after day during their formative years - both at school and at home - are better-equipped to handle discrepant ideas upon graduation. Whether in a secular university or in the work place, young adults with a solid biblical foundation are far less likely to fall victim to the subtle lies of our post-modern culture.

“All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness:” (2 Timothy 3:16).

The question remains however, how do you define success? Does success equal an Ivy League education for your child, or a certain salary level, or even a prestigious title? Then again, how does God measure success? A healthy marriage? An understanding of biblical truth? These are important issues to pray about.

9. PEER PRESSURE

If only the Bible had told us that good company improves bad morals, many of us would have a welcome reprieve. Unfortunately, the opposite is true. Bad company corrupts good morals, the Apostle Paul tells us, and we can assume he was writing to a predominantly adult audience. You can imagine what he might say to a group of impressionable children and young teens.

“Be not deceived: evil communications corrupt good manners.” (1 Corinthians 15:33).

Make no mistake: your kids will be exposed to bad company no matter where they go to school. Sometimes they may even be the bad company. But in a Christian environment, they’ll be much less likely to find themselves surrounded by destructive influences, and far more likely to find positive ones.

10. THE STATE OF PUBLIC EDUCATION

One final reason to consider Christian schools can be found by taking an even closer look at the alternative. If you study the origin and history of modern government-sponsored education, you'll find some alarming facts. Its founders were atheists whose hatred of Christianity is a matter of public record. Its current agenda - the propagation of humanistic ideals that render God irrelevant or non-existent - can be easily spotted in its curriculum.

"The United States system of national popular education will be the most efficient and wide instrument for the propagation of Atheism which the world has ever seen."
A. A. Hodge

The Nehemiah Institute has put together a list of nine reasons why Christians shouldn't place their children in secular academic institutions. It may be useful information as you consider the educational future of your children.

IN CONCLUSION

None of this is meant to be a criticism of parents who place their children in public schools. Nor is it an indictment against well-meaning public school educators. But the fact remains that public schools are not allowed to give your children the educational experience the Bible demands. Regardless of what you may think about Christian school, we encourage you to seek God's thoughts on the matter before choosing an academic home for your children.

BIG IDEAS TO CONSIDER:

1. There are basically two kingdoms: a kingdom of light and a kingdom of darkness. It seems strange to have those who walk in darkness educate children of light. It doesn't fit.

2. If Jesus Christ is Lord, then He is Lord of all. We cannot divide things into secular and sacred.

3. All truth is God's truth, and God's Word sheds light on our path. Only in His light can we see light. Education is not focused on possibilities but on certainties found in God's Word.

4. Deuteronomy 6 tells parents that, in all they do, they should provide a godly education 24/7.

5. Three key institutions that shape a child are the home, the church and the school. Children are served best when all three institutions point them in the same direction.

6. Only an education that has the liberty to address the whole child - social, intellectual, emotional, physical AND spiritual - reaches the possibility of excellence.

7. The best preparation for effective service is to be well grounded in one's mind before direct engagement of the culture.

Developing Natural Creativity and Thinking

For Parents
www.aceministries.com

Children have creative minds and great imaginations. As parents, we have the privilege and awesome responsibility of guiding and developing their natural creativity and thinking. The Literature and Creative Writing course provided by Accelerated Christian Education is an excellent tool to help develop these skills. The student:

- learns verses and Biblical principles from the Book of Proverbs.
- reads wholesome, character-building literature.
- completes a variety of interesting and challenging activities that improve handwriting, increase reading skill, and develop critical thinking.
- learns about and practices writing different types of literature.
- exercises the use of his imagination and creativity.

Each PACE begins with a memory verse from the Book of Proverbs. A poem explains the proverb, and a character strip illustrates the proverb in a situation to which the student easily relates. The Biblical principle of the proverb is explained and emphasized throughout the PACE and the literature book.

Beginning in Level four, the student reads one literature book while completing two PACEs. The literature books for each level include a variety of types: adventure stories, missionary stories, biographies, animal stories, character development, and short stories. Your child is introduced to a variety of authors and literary styles, including some of the classics. Different geographical settings allow him to travel to unfamiliar lands and meet new and interesting people. He observes and learns from the characters as they resolve conflicts with nature, with others, or within themselves. He learns valuable character lessons, which he is encouraged to apply in his own life.

In each PACE, the proverb, the literature book, and the activities are interrelated in an interesting and academically challenging manner. A variety of comprehension and deduction questions check the student's understanding of the proverb and the story. Dictionary and vocabulary activities teach dictionary skills and increase the student's vocabulary as he learns new words from the proverb and the story. Map studies help him visualize the story setting and learn how to follow detailed instructions. He expands his thinking and imagination as he predicts the ending of the story or writes another ending. He learns character lessons about right actions and attitudes. He learns to think logically as he draws accurate conclusions based upon what is true.

Many activities prepare your child for writing creatively. He learns about adjectives, action words, similes, metaphors, and other illustrious words. He uses his five senses to paint mental pictures. He learns how to put his thoughts into word clusters and develop those clusters into creative writing. He is guided systematically as he writes different types of literature: summaries, letters, diaries, sketches, anecdotes, poetry, essays, short stories, and others. By following this step-by-step process, he finds that creative writing is not difficult—it is fun!

Because this course encourages creativity and imagination, some activities are subjective and are evaluated by the supervisor. The supervisor's involvement and encouragement are essential in stimulating critical thinking skills. When used correctly, this core course helps the student learn to think, evaluate, analyze, apply, imagine, and create.

Literature and Creative Writing is a colorful, exciting, academically challenging course that broadens the student's thinking and instills positive character traits for a lifetime. ACE
